Committee Approves Use Of $8,500,000 In Pickaway And Ross Counties

The national House of Representatives flood control committee Friday submitted a report to congress favoring a five year $191,000,000 program, including $8,500,000 for Pickaway and Ross Counties.

The report, which calls for the appropriation of funds for a vast national undertaking, was described as "an essential legislative preliminary," by Congressman Harold K. Claypool, who was informed at his home in Chillicothe of the committee's action via telephone by Congressman Will Whittington, Oklahoma, the chairman.

Mr. Claypool added that there is little question now as to passage of the measure by the House. It would then go to the Senate, and, if approved, go to the President for ratification.

Actual financing of the program would require a second bill, it was pointed out, however. This bill would have to be submitted by the committee on appropriations.

Included in the flood control committee's bill was $30,000,000 for the Ohio river basin, of which $13,000,000 is for the Scioto river. The $8,500,000 item for Ross and Pickaway counties is in this latter item, with the remaining $4,500,000 for completion of a dam in the Scioto at Delaware.

The bill does not specify where the Ross and Pickaway dams are to be located. This is to be done at the discretion of army engineers who already have surveyed Paint and Deer creeks and their tributaries.

HOME, HOSPITAL MOVE TO SUPPLY TO OCCUPY NEW AIR CORPS WITH QUARTERS JUNE 1 FIGHTERS BEGINS

The Board of Management of the Home and Hospital has announced that the institution would remove June 1 to the Colville property, 401 East Main Street, from its present location on West Ohio Street. The announcement followed a business meeting of the board Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles G. Shulze, 316 South Court Street. The property is at present occupied by the WPA office.

Mrs. Frank J. Bennett and Mrs. A. D. Newmyer were elected to serve as co-presidents at this time. Mrs. Shulze and Miss Sadie Brunner were re-elected to the offices of treasurer and secretary which they have filled for the last year.

Mrs. Frederick D. Richey of Ashville was elected as a member of the board also at this meeting. There are at present five women being cared for at the home.

BLUFFTON STUDENTS PUT PRICE ON CHURCH'S HEAD

LIMA, May 4 — A reward of $3.23 was offered today for the capture of Samuel Harden Church by seven Bluffton College students, who termed the head of the Carnegie Institute a war monger for placing $1,000,000 on the head of Adolph Hitler.

The students claimed that Church was trying to "arouse passions and prejudices" and that his action will strain international relations. Bluffton College is a Mennonite college 17 miles north-east of Lima. Mennonites practice pacifism.

Those who scraped up the reward were Dale Francis, Lima; William Snyder, Altoona, Pa.; Don Gundy, Meadows, Ill.; Richard Baker, Sebring, O.; Richard Weaver, Goshen, Ind.; Racine Warren, Bluffton, O., and John Thutt, Elida, O. The offer was sent to the New York Times.

Alexandria Hears Rumor Of Action; Allies On Watch For Move

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 4 — Reports of an Italian fleet concentration in the eastern Mediterranean reached Alexandria today on the heels of arrival of a powerful Anglo-French battle fleet.

The reports could not be confirmed, but British spokesmen here emphasized the new Allied naval precautions in the Mediterranean denoted full readiness to meet any hostile move by Germany or Italy.

At the same time Britain's strategic base at Malta experienced its first complete blackout. Egypt, too, squared off for possible war-like action and the Egyptian border facing Italian Libya was patrolled by a "desert air watch" for the first time.

A battleship sailed into Alexandria Harbor accompanied by cruisers and destroyers, submarines and a depot ship. Seaplanes roared at anchor with their bomb racks loaded.

SOCIALITE CHARGED WITH AIDING NON-SUPPORT CASE

COLUMBUS, May 4 — Law clerks were unable to find a precedent today in the case of Mrs. Helen W. D. Clemishaw, 34-year-old widow from fashionable Cleveland Heights, who was free under $1,000 bond on a charge of "aiding and abetting" Harry J. Gooby, 40, in neglecting his six children.

While Gooby was held in jail on the charge of neglecting his children filed by his estranged wife, Winifred Gooby, the county prosecutor's office said that it was the first time in Ohio history the "aiding and abetting" charge was filed.

Mrs. Clemishaw was also the target of a $15,000 alienation of affections suit filed by Mrs. Gooby. Gooby and Mrs. Clemishaw were arrested in Cleveland and returned to suburban Westerville to face the neglect charge. The widow pleaded "not guilty," and later said that she and Gooby were "just friends."

The alienation suit was filed in the Franklin County common pleas court.

CHURCHILL DOWNS, LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4—"Boots and Saddles" will be blared from a bugle to roll out over this historic racing plant late today and shortly thereafter a crowd of some 85,000 berserk spectators from everywhere will have the answer to the burning question of the year—is Bimelech really that good? They want to know briefly whether the Edward R. Bradley three-year-old is one of those virtually invincible thoroughbreds which can and will stand out in even such company as is gathered for today's 66th Kentucky Derby.

"Big Bim," as he is affectionately known, although he actually isn't very big, will get his test against seven or eight other three-year-olds nurtured and groomed for this revered spectacle at 1 1/4 miles for a winner's share of $80,650 from the stake that includes $75,000 added money. If he can eat up the ground as his records show he can this is the time for him to prove it, beginning at 5:30 p. m. (Circleville time). As usual, Freddie Smith will do the riding.

They will be in the No. 2 post position and by the time the customary uproar with "My Old Kentucky Home," they probably will be backed down to one to three, or thereabouts, in wagering. Just two or three of the possible field of nine and probable field of eight are given a remote chance, and then only if the racing strip is muddy. Among these is William Brann's Pictor, hailed by many as probably the best mud-runner of the nine whose names were sent through the entry box yesterday.

Fair Sides Prevail

Joseph E. Widener's Roman and Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Gallahadion are others which would get some support in the event of rain. The weather forecast, however, is for a fair warm day, hence a fast track, hence a breeze for Bimelech—barring accidents.

Martin J. Schmitt, local attorney, is definitely committed to scratching his 200 to 1 True Star, a surprise entry, unless the going is muddy.

Anyhow, the field and riders in the order of post position will be Gallahadion with Bierman up, Bimelech and Smith, as mentioned, Mioland and Balaski, True Star and West, if they go; Roman and McCombs, Sirocco and Longdon, Dit and Haas, Royal Man and Gilbert, and Pictor and Woolf.

With Bimelech an odds on favorite, next to him in the wagering probably will be Dit at about 8 to 1 and Pictor around 12 to 1. After that probably will come Mioland and Roman, then the rest (Continued on Page Eight)

Powder Blast Shakes du Pont Firm's Plant

CARNEY'S POINT, N. J., May 4—A terrific explosion of 4,000 pounds of powder today rocked the powder plant of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company, of Wilmington, located here.

The blast, occurring shortly before 6 a. m., damaged a brick sieving building where powder is treated with graphite and placed in cartridges.

Plant officials said no one was killed and no one was hurt seriously although two men who ran from a building near the sieving structure suffered shock. They were taken to a hospital on the grounds for treatment.

No one was in the sieving plant at the time of the explosion, Du Pont officials said.

The injured men were John Roberts, 28, of Penns Grove, and R. L. Curtis, 33, of Bridgeport.

Later information said that both men were in the sieving building just before the blow-up, but escaped in time when they saw "something was wrong." They managed to flee to safety by bare seconds. One report said both suffered burns.

MERCURY'S RISE TO BE CONTINUED DURING WEEKEND

By International News Service

An abashed and discomfited thermometer, starting from the neighborhood of the forties — only about five degrees higher than yesterday morning — sluggishly climbed upward today in its effort to catch up with a calendar that insisted it was spring, despite the evidence of the last few days.

Meteorologists, determined to fight it out on that line if it takes all summer, doggedly predicted again—"slowly rising temperature." Cloudy skies were to screen intermittently the face of a welcome sun, but tomorrow will be bright and clear—and warm.

For the second straight day, the mercury yesterday flirted with record low marks as snow flurries throughout the state caused only slight surprise. Farmers continued to fear for their crops as the mercury slid to a shivery 35 in Central Ohio—only two degrees higher than the all-time cold record for the date, recorded in 1929.

High for the day was 42 in Central Ohio. High expected today was about 50 degrees. Early today the cold area centered around Dayton, with a reading of only 34 degrees. Toledo and Cincinnati recorded 37, Akron and East Liverpool, 38, and Columbus, Cleveland and Cambridge an even 40 degrees.

Warring Nations Are Uneasy About New Strife Scene

By International News Service
While the Allies shifted their naval attention to the Mediterranean, Germany announced a new victory of its aerial bombing armada over the British fleet today.

A Nazi statement claimed the sinking of a British battleship of the 35,000-ton Warspite class off the coast of Norway near Trondheim.

Bombs made several direct hits on the steel-armored ship, the Germans said, and one heavy caliber bomb struck between the vessel's two forward turrets setting the ship afire. The battleship sank within half a minute, according to the Nazi announcement.

Casualties aboard the warship were not estimated by the Nazis, but it was known that vessels of the Warspite class carry complements of nearly 1,200 men.

Counting Norwegian and Allied troops reportedly aboard the battleship, however, the Germans estimated nearly 3,000 men were killed in the sinking.

The Nazi communique further announced sinking of another British submarine by German submarine chasers, and capture of two British steamers allegedly loaded with an ore cargo.

Meanwhile, Moscow disclosed officially that Russia and Germany have agreed to use their joint efforts to preserve the neutrality of Sweden.

Powers Talk in Moscow
The agreement was reached last week during a Moscow conference between representatives of both powers.

Other developments in the Scandinavian war theatre were highlighted by the details of a stunning defeat inflicted on a German column by a smaller Norwegian force fighting perhaps the last major battle in Central Norway. The Norwegians dispersed

Jane's Fighting Ships lists three British warships of the Warspite class, all built either in 1913 or 1914. They are the Queen Elizabeth, the Valiant and the Warspite.

Carrying a war-time complement of more than 1,184 men, these battleships are equipped with 15-inch guns and anti-aircraft batteries. Their construction costs reached more than $12,500,000 each.

However, Jane's Fighting Ships points out that the Warspite underwent extensive reconstruction on two occasions thus increasing the vessel's cost and naval effectiveness.

While the Allies forces in western Norway abandoned Namsos and the Trondheim area for unknown destinations, bitter accusations against the British and French for their conduct of the Norwegian campaign were heard in Sweden, Norway and even in England. In London, Parliament members prepared a list of searching questions for Prime Minister Chamberlain to answer next Tuesday, questions which may shake the very foundations of the premier's government.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEES GATHER FRIDAY EVENING

A joint meeting of the Central and Executive Republican Committees was conducted in the Common Pleas Court room Friday evening, the object of the meeting being to increase the Republican vote in Pickaway County.

Qualifications of Ray Davis, candidate for Congress, and of Tom Renick, candidate for State Central Committeeman of the 11th Ohio District, were stressed. About 80 persons were present.

Warring Nations Are Uneasy About New Strife Scene

While the Allies shifted their naval attention to the Mediterranean, Germany announced a new victory of its aerial bombing armada over the British fleet today.

A Nazi statement claimed the sinking of a British battleship of the 35,000-ton Warspite class off the coast of Norway near Trondheim.

Bombs made several direct hits on the steel-armored ship, the Germans said, and one heavy caliber bomb struck between the vessel's two forward turrets setting the ship afire. The battleship sank within half a minute, according to the Nazi announcement.

Casualties aboard the warship were not announced by the Nazis, but it was known that vessels of the Warspite class carry complements of nearly 1,200 men.

Counting Norwegian and Allied troops reportedly aboard the battleship, however, the Germans estimated nearly 3,000 men were killed in the sinking.

The Nazi communique further announced sinking of another British submarine by German submarine chasers, and capture of two British steamers allegedly loaded with an ore cargo.

Meanwhile, Moscow disclosed officially that Russia and Germany have agreed to use their joint efforts to preserve the neutrality of Sweden.

Powers Talk in Moscow
The agreement was reached last week during a Moscow conference between representatives of both powers.

Other developments in the Scandinavian war theatre were highlighted by the details of a stunning defeat inflicted on a German column by a smaller Norwegian force fighting perhaps the last major battle in Central Norway. The Norwegians dispersed

Jane's Fighting Ships lists three British warships of the Warspite class, all built either in 1913 or 1914. They are the Queen Elizabeth, the Valiant and the Warspite.

Carrying a war-time complement of more than 1,184 men, these battleships are equipped with 15-inch guns and anti-aircraft batteries. Their construction costs reached more than $12,500,000 each.

However, Jane's Fighting Ships points out that the Warspite underwent extensive reconstruction on two occasions thus increasing the vessel's cost and naval effectiveness.

While the Allied forces in western Norway abandoned Namsos and the Trondheim area for unknown destinations, bitter accusations against the British and French for their conduct of the Norwegian campaign were heard in Sweden, Norway and even in England. In London, Parliament members prepared a list of searching questions for Prime Minister Chamberlain to answer next Tuesday, questions which may shake the very foundations of the premier's government.

The British public, however, was being diverted from the disaster in Norway by news of (Continued on Page Eight)

$5,000 To See Race; Hotel Rates, Food, Drinks And Other Expenses Sky High; Two Millions To Be Bet At Downs

By Clyde L. Reece
LOUISVILLE, May 4—Banking on Bibelech to beat the field, as expected, but ready nonetheless to praise any winner, a crowd estimated at $5,000 started for Churchill Downs and the Kentucky Derby bright and early today.

Some had large heads from the effects of last night's thousands of parties and dances, and others were fresh for the ordeal, but either way they were eager to see Col. Mat Winn give away $75,000 added money, a $5,000 gold trophy and a wreath of American beauty roses.

At the track hundreds were sleeping in automobiles, to be first into the 66th running of the great classic. Mostly, these wanted a "first" on the enlarged section of 50 cent bleachers on the backstretch.

Athlete Crippled

LOUISVILLE BOY GETS DECISION OVER DAVEY DAY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4—By a hairline, 15-round decision won from Davey Day of Chicago last night, Sammy Angott of Louisville today was the National Boxing Association's recognized lightweight champion.

The Louisville boy, meeting Day for the third time, was awarded the decision by Referee Jack Dempsey, who had scored 78 points for Angott to 74 for Day. Each had won one decision in two previous fights.

The battle, held on the eve of the Kentucky Derby, was for the championship vacated by the N. B. A. when it declared Lou Ambers had forfeited his crown by refusing to defend it within a prescribed six-month period.

His strong finish, coupled with an early lead, got Angott the decision. Day was bleeding and losing no opportunity to clinch through most of the fifteenth

— PLAYING A SENSATIONAL GAME IN CENTER FIELD FOR THE DETROIT TIGERS

Up in the press box atop the clubhouse grandstand were nearly 50 newspaper reporters and telegraph operators ready to tell an eager nation the winner. On the grounds were 275 photographers, still and movie.

Precautions Taken
Before the turnstiles started clicking, 965 National Guardsmen and 82 officers entered the track to keep order. A total of 125 firemen with apparatus and 4,600 feet of hose watched for any blazes.

To the thousands who year after year watch the giant wreath of roses placed over the Derby victor's frothy neck, here's an introduction. The man who bestows the gift is Andy Phillips, 40, a Negro, who started with Twenty Grand in 1931.

Upwards of $3,000,000 was being spent over the week end by Derby guests. They were paying from $10 to $20 per night, for three nights, cash in advance for ordinary hotel rooms, and more for special suites. They were getting dinners from 50 cents to $5 per plate, or $7.50 a plate at the Kentucky Colonels banquet.

Mint juleps were costing 75 cents each or $1 at the Downs where the metal cup was kept as a "gift." Champagne was averaging $7.50 a bottle at the hotels and night clubs.

They weren't idle at the Downs on entertainment and service either. There was plenty to eat and drink, more than last year, when the concessionaire reported he supplied 100,000 bottles of beer, 100,000 soft drinks; 6,000 bottles of liquor; 75,000 hot dogs; 50,000 sandwiches; 3,000 full meals and 25,000 loaves of bread.

Escorts for Notables
Police escorts were supplied only members of President Roosevelt's cabinet and United States senators. The rest of the crowd took care of itself. Taxicabs were rushed, and tens of thousands rode trolleys into the Downs sheds.

Last night a few hundred Kentucky Colonels attended a brilliant banquet at which Washington, New York and Hollywood celebrities were special guests. Lieut. Gov. Rodes K. Myers performed the annual toast of the mint julep.

During Saturday something like $2,000,000 was expected to go through the Downs turnstiles on the day's races. Of the amount approximately $700,000 was expected to be wagered on the Derby alone.

Bradley Might Put Fur Coat on His Bimelech

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4—Heaven help the working man who loses his overcoat, never mind his shirt, on the sixty-sixth Kentucky Derby this afternoon.

It was so cold around here at Derby breakfast time this morning that the frost was on not only the mint julep, but also on the frying pan in which the ham and eggs were cooking.

In fact, it was so cold that we heard Col. Bradley wanted to run Bimelech in a coonskin coat. And Binmy probably could run that way rigged, as we handicappers say, and still win. If, however, it develops that he is beaten, throw that last sentence out. Again in racing parlance "that last sentence doesn't go."

In seventeen years this is the chilliest derby this correspondent has run into. It's a shame Santa Claus didn't enter one of his reindeer. Say, Blitzen. You wouldn't say Vizen, since fillets so seldom win the Derby.

Santa Claus Present
But Louisville and Kentucky made up in warmth of welcome to the city's annual invading army what the weather lacked. The annual dinner of Kentucky Colonels was held last night in mine host Sam Friedman's Kentucky Hotel, and so many of the gentlemen present had whiskers and goatees that it looked as though Santa Claus was in town sure enough.

This column's selections for the Derby this afternoon at this writing are pretty well known. We've been cutting the race up one side and down the other like a made over dress for ten days now, so that what we like has ceased to be a star chamber secret. Provided, of course, that you've been listening.

However, it is now an ancient custom of ours to try to pick the Derby field one, two, three, four, since fourth money is offered in the race, and here we off the deep end again:

- 1.—Bimelech.
- 2.—Molend.
- 3.—Pictor.
- 4.—Dit.

After what our man who sleeps in the barn told us yesterday, we'd be inclined to stick Roman in their somewhere, if it wasn't too late for a switch, or herpicide, either.

Our man who sleeps in the barn says that Roman wasn't asked to run a lick against Binmy in the Blue Grass Stakes a fortnight back.

CLOSE CONTESTS FEATURE GAMES IN ASSOCIATION
COLUMBUS, May 4—Indiana today shared first place honors in the American Association with Minneapolis by virtue of its second straight win over the Millers, 3 to 1.

Pete Sivess, obtained by the Indians from the Phillies, held the big Miller bats to five hits despite a shaky start. He wiggled out of a hole in the first without allowing a score after having the bases filled with none out, and only Lin Storti's seventh stanza homer prevented him from marking up a shut-out.

The defending champion Blues came from behind when Johnny Riddle's home run in the ninth, with a mate on base, gave them a 4 to 3 victory over Columbus. It was Kansas City's second straight win over the Birds, who also blew a lead the day before and are now in last place with a .250 percentage.

Louisville had to go 12 innings to eke out a 4 to 3 win over St. Paul. The Colonels garnered 12 hits to eight for the Saints. The Toledo tilt at Milwaukee was postponed because of wet grounds.

round, although he managed to end the fight swinging. Angott landed a hard overhand right to the jaw and two punishing undercuts during the 15th.

The crowd was estimated at 8,000 and the receipts at $15,000, both much smaller than pre-fight estimates. Each contestant was guaranteed $3,000, with an option of 30 percent of the net gate. Day weighed in at 134 pounds and Angott 134½ pounds. Dempsey alone decided the winner.

Angott was the aggressor throughout; the early rounds, and used a sharp left to good advantage. In the seventh, Day picked up momentum and they fought mostly on even terms, with Day occasionally working in an advantage until the last and, ringside observers believed, deciding round.

Unorthodox Handling Of Moundsmen Cited As Squad Slips
By Ed Kiely
NEW YORK, May 4—There are quite a number of soft jobs in this world, it is reported, but managing a Major League ball club is not one of them. Ask Ray Blades.

Blades' position today is that of piloting the St. Louis Cardinals, the best-balanced team in the National League—on paper.

In his first season as a Major League manager last year, the former big league outfielder boosted the Cards from a sixth place spot to a runner-up berth behind the Cincinnati Reds. This year the other managers in the senior circuit put him on the spot by picking his team to win the flag.

An additional headache, it has been bandied about in the best baseball circles, is that Joe Medwick, the Cards' star, doesn't get along too well with Blades and some of the other players. Yet the experts predict dire things for the Red Birds without Ducky Wukky in the lineup.

Also Blades is being criticized by many observers for the unorthodox manner in which he handles his pitching corps. During a game, Blades will yank his twirler on the slightest provocation. Last year this method worked with some degree of success. So far this season it has proven a dismal failure.

Yesterday, the young manager used a trio of hurlers in an attempt to subdue the Boston Bees, but the banjo hitting Bostonians garnered ten safeties to win 4 to 2. Bill Posedel pitched the Bees to their second triumph of the year by setting the ex-Gas House gang down with seven hits.

Rain again disposed of all the other games in the National League.

Over in the American League home runs played a major role in the only two games held. New York whipping Chicago, 8 to 4, and Boston edging out St. Louis, 9 to 8, in ten innings.

For the Yanks, Red Rolfe, George Selkirk and Charlie Keller connected for four-baggers and Rookie Marvin Brewer won his first victory in the big time.

Jim Tabor hit two homers and Ted Williams and Joe Cronin contributed one each as the Red Sox climbed uphill to overtake the Browns in the extra innings struggle. Elsewhere rain and cold weather halted proceedings.

BAER AND MANN HERE ARE FACTS 'CONTEST' ENDS ABOUT KENTUCKY IN THE SEVENTH DERBY RUNNING

By Pat Robinson
NEW YORK, May 4—We may say today without fear of successful contradiction that Mike Jacobs has no intention of carrying out his promise to toss the winner of the Buddy Baer-Natie Mann fight in with Joe Louis this summer.

And for two good reasons: (1) Mike saw Mann quit to Baer in the seventh canto in the Garden last night; and (2) even if Mike wanted to feed this decidedly timid Baer to Louis, the sporting public wouldn't stand for it.

This was one fight the faithful had tabbed correctly. You may recall that it was faithfully reported that the fight mob said this one was merely a question of which lad would quit first.

Well, it was Mann who chucked it. And the strangest part of it all was that he was winning away off by himself when he turned away and decided to call it a night.

When the seventh and last round started you could have written your own ticket on the outcome. The ringside gamblers were offering 10 to 1 on Mann.

Then Baer came out ferociously—that is, ferociously for him—and tapped Mann with a right hand. Mann went down with a cut over his eye and Baer piled on him and dropped him again.

They wrestled their way over to the rope and suddenly Mann turned away and indicated that he had enough so Referee Art Donovan waived him to his corner.

Later Mann said the blood was getting into his eye and bothering him. Up to that round the fight was a sad commentary on the current heavyweight situation as the 249 pound Baer half-heartedly punched down at the 188 pound Mann who looked like a Singer Midget alongside his six-foot-six opponent.

CINCINNATI, May 4—Deacon McKechnie, skipper of the Cincinnati Reds, switched his plans today and planned to send big Paul Derringer against the Philadelphia Phillies this afternoon.

Paul will be gunning for his third win of the season when he matches slants with Kirby Higbe, who tallied one of the three victories Philadelphia marked up over the Reds in 22 tries last season.

The first game of the scheduled two-game series was postponed yesterday by the coldest weather ever seen in Cincinnati on May 3, along with a drizzling rain. The game will be played as part of a double-header July 14.

DEACON TO SEND PAUL TO MOUND AGAINST PHILS
CINCINNATI, May 4—Deacon McKechnie, skipper of the Cincinnati Reds, switched his plans today and planned to send big Paul Derringer against the Philadelphia Phillies this afternoon.

Paul will be gunning for his third win of the season when he matches slants with Kirby Higbe, who tallied one of the three victories Philadelphia marked up over the Reds in 22 tries last season.

The first game of the scheduled two-game series was postponed yesterday by the coldest weather ever seen in Cincinnati on May 3, along with a drizzling rain. The game will be played as part of a double-header July 14.

RULEY NAMED MANAGER
FINDLAY, May 4—George Ruley, catcher for the Findlay Club of the Ohio State League, today began his managerial career by taking over the reins of his team at the age of 22. He succeeds Grover Hartley, who remains as coach but turned over the piloting duties to Ruley because of the press of the club's business affairs.

Derby Throngs Put Thousands Into Circulation

$5,000 To See Race; Hotel Rates, Food, Drinks And Other Expenses Sky High; Two Millions To Be Bet At Downs

By Clyde L. Reece
LOUISVILLE, May 4—Banking on Bimelech to beat the field, as expected, but ready nonetheless to praise any winner, a crowd estimated at $5,000 started for Churchill Downs and the Kentucky Derby bright and early today.

Some had large heads from the effects of last night's thousands of parties and dances, and others were fresh for the ordeal, but either way they were eager to see Col. Mat Winn give away $75,000 added money, a $5,000 gold trophy and a wreath of American beauty roses.

At the track hundreds were sleeping in automobiles, to be first into the 66th running of the great classic. Mostly, these wanted a "first" on the enlarged section of 50 cent bleachers on the backstretch.

Athlete Crippled

LOUISVILLE BOY GETS DECISION OVER DAVEY DAY
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4—By a hairline, 15-round decision won from Davey Day of Chicago last night, Sammy Angott of Louisville today was the National Boxing Association's recognized lightweight champion.
The Louisville boy, meeting Day for the third time, was awarded the decision by Referee Jack Dempsey, who had scored 79 points for Angott to 74 for Day. Each had won one decision in two previous fights.
The battle, held on the eve of the Kentucky Derby, was for the championship vacated by the N. B. A. when it declared Lou Ambers had forfeited his crown by refusing to defend it within a prescribed six-month period.
His strong finish, coupled with an early lead, got Angott the decision. Day was bleeding and losing no opportunity to clinch through most of the fifteenth round, although he managed to end the fight swinging. Angott landed a hard overhand right to the jaw and two punishing undercuts during the 15th.

The crowd was estimated at 8,000 and the receipts at $15,000, both much smaller than pre-fight estimates. Each contestant was guaranteed $3,000, with an option of 30 percent of the net gate. Day weighed in at 134 pounds and Angott 134½ pounds. Dempsey alone decided the winner.

Angott was the aggressor throughout; the early rounds, and used a sharp left to good advantage. In the seventh, Day picked up momentum and they fought mostly on even terms, with Day occasionally working in an advance until the last and, ring-side observers believed, deciding round.

TIGER SENSATION

Bradley Might Put Fur Coat on His Bimelech

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4—Heaven help the working man who loses his overcoat, never mind his shirt, on the sixty-sixth Kentucky Derby this afternoon.

It was so cold around here at Derby breakfast time this morning that the frost was on not only the mint julep, but also on the frying pan in which the ham and eggs were cooking.

In fact, it was so cold that we heard Col. Bradley wanted to run Bimelech in a coonskin coat. And Bimby probably could run that way rigged, as we handicappers say, and still win. If, however, it develops that he is beaten, throw that last sentence out. Again in racing parlance "that last sentence doesn't go."

CLOSE CONTESTS FEATURE GAMES IN ASSOCIATION

COLUMBUS, May 4—Indiana today shared first place honors in the American Association with Minneapolis by virtue of its second straight win over the Millers, 3 to 1.

Pete Sliva, obtained by the Indians from the Phillies, held the big Miller Bats to five hits despite a shaky start. He wiggled out of a hole in the first without allowing a score after having the bases filled with none out, and only Lin Storti's seventh stanza homer prevented him from marking up a shut-out.

The defending champion Blues came from behind when Johnny Riddle's home run in the ninth, with a mate on base, gave them a 4 to 3 victory over Columbus. It was Kansas City's second straight win over the Birds, who also blew a lead the day before and are now in last place with a .250 percentage.

Louisville had to go 12 innings to eke out a 4 to 3 win over St. Paul. The Colonels garnered 12 hits to eight for the Saints. The Toledo tilt at Milwaukee was postponed because of wet grounds.

BLADES FINDING JOB TOUGH ONE

Unorthodox Handling Of Moundsmen Cited As Squad Slips

By Ed Kiely
NEW YORK, May 4—There are quite a number of soft jobs in this world, it is reported, but managing a Major League ball club is not one of them. Ask Ray Blades.

Blades' position today is that of piloting the St. Louis Cardinals, the best-balanced team in the National League—on paper.

In his first season as a Major League manager last year, the former big league outfielder boosted the Cards from a sixth place spot to a runner-up berth behind the Cincinnati Reds. This year the other managers in the senior circuit put him on the spot by picking his team to win the flag.

An additional headache, it has been handled about in the best baseball circles, is that Joe Medwick, the Cards' star, doesn't get along too well with Blades and some of the other players. Yet the experts predict dire things for the Red Birds without Ducky Wukly in the lineup.

Also Blades is being criticized by many observers for the unorthodox manner in which he handles his pitching corps. During a game, Blades will yank his twirler on the slightest provocation. Last year this method worked with some degree of success. So far this season it has proven a dismal failure.

Yesterday, the young manager used a trio of hurlers in an attempt to subdue the Boston Bees, but the banjo hitting Bostonians garnered ten safeties to win 4 to 2. Bill Posedel pitched the Bees to their second triumph of the year by setting the ex-Gas House gang down with seven hits.

Rain again disposed of all the other games in the National League.

Over in the American League home runs played a major role in the only two games held, New York whipping Chicago, 8 to 4, and Boston edging out St. Louis, 9 to 8, in ten innings.

For the Yanks, Red Rolfe, George Selkirk and Charlie Keller connected for four-baggers and Rookie Marvin Breuer won his first victory in the big time.

Jim Tabor hit two homers and Ted Williams and Joe Cronin contributed one each as the Red Sox climbed uphill to overtake the Browns in the extra innings struggle. Elsewhere rain and cold weather halted proceedings.

DEACON TO SEND PAUL TO MOUND AGAINST PHILS

CINCINNATI, May 4—Deacon McKechnie, skipper of the Cincinnati Reds, switched his plans today and planned to send big Paul Derringer against the Philadelphia Phillies this afternoon.

Paul will be gunning for his third win of the season when he matches slants with Kirby Higbe, who tallied one of the three victories Philadelphia marked up over the Reds in 22 tries last season.

The first game of the scheduled two-game series was postponed yesterday by the coldest weather ever seen in Cincinnati on May 3, along with a drizzling rain. The game will be played as part of a double-header July 14.

1.—Bimelech.
2.—Molind.
3.—Pictor.
4.—Dit.

After what our man who sleeps in the barn told us yesterday, we'd be inclined to stick Roman in there somewhere, if it wasn't too late for a switch, or herpicide, either.

Our man who sleeps in the barn says that Roman wasn't asked to run a lick against Bimby in the Blue Grass Stakes a fortnight back.

BAER AND MANN HERE ARE FACTS ABOUT KENTUCKY IN THE SEVENTH DERBY RUNNING

By Pat Robinson
NEW YORK, May 4—We may say today without fear of successful contradiction that Mike Jacobs has no intention of carrying out his promise to toss the winner of the Buddy Baer-Natie Mann fight in with Joe Louis this summer.

And for two good reasons: (1) Mike saw Mann quit to Baer in the seventh canto in the Garden last night; and (2) even if Mike wanted to feed this decidedly timid Baer to Louis, the sporting public wouldn't stand for it.

This was one fight the faithful had tabbed correctly. You may recall that it was faithfully reported that the fight mob said this one was merely a question of which lad would quit first.

Well, it was Mann who choked it. And the strangest part of it all was that he was winning away off by himself when he turned away and decided to call it a night.

When the seventh and last round started you could have written your own ticket on the outcome. The ringside gamblers were offering 10 to 1 on Mann.

Then Baer came out ferociously—that is, ferociously for him—and tapped Mann with a right hand. Mann went down with a cut over his eye and Baer piled on him and dropped him again.

They wrestled their way over to the rope and suddenly Mann turned away and indicated that he had enough so Referee Art Donovan waived him to his corner.

Later Mann said the blood was getting into his eye and bothering him. Up to that round the fight was a sad commentary on the current heavyweight situation as the 249 pound Baer half-heartedly punched down at the 183 pound Mann who looked like a Slinger Midget alongside his six-foot-six opponent.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Isaiah 55.

"Seek ye the Lord while He may be found, call ye upon Him while He is near." Isaiah, the greatest of the prophets, tells those who are unhappy.

"Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him."

For the rain cometh down, and watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, so shall My word be, says God.

"Ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace" if ye will but follow in the way of our Lord. (GOLDEN TEXT—Isaiah 55:6)

PRESENT WORLD FACTS

AMERICANS this last week have had their first real scare of war. It came from the British defeats in Norway. Those failures made millions of us realize suddenly that the Allies, with whom our sympathy is mostly engaged and who seem to be our first line of defense against autocracy, might not win. And if the dictatorships should win, what then? We began to feel a little uncertain about ourselves, and somewhat lonely in a big, menacing world.

We may pull ourselves out of that mood, with an Allied victory or two, but facts remain facts. Allied victory is not at all certain. Allied resources are not unlimited. Expert observers say that the allied democracies have enough money to last, at the present rate of spending, perhaps till the end of next year. Then, if the war is not won, they will need credit for further supplies.

At present their great need is airplanes, to take control of the air from the Nazis. If they could get immediately all the war planes they need and are able to pay for, says Walter Lippman, they could become masters of the air at once, and could probably win the war this year.

"The crucial difficulty," he says, "which makes us insecure and handicaps them critically, is that the plants have not been built, the tools have not been made, the labor has not been trained, in order to produce armaments as quickly as the condition of affairs in the world requires."

It may be, in a long-range view, that there are other things no less important to Americans this year than the political campaign.

OUR JOB OF FREEDOM

THE world must organize and federate, or it will perish, says Barnett R. Brickner, a leading American rabbi. And the outcome of the present war in Europe, which may spread widely, will determine whether the organization shall be totalitarian or democratic. Our stake in the outcome is obvious.

"Everything in me," he adds, "compels me to believe that mankind will not succumb permanently to a world order such as Hitler and Stalin would force upon it. This country of ours, I believe, will stand guard lest the flame of liberty be blown out."

Such guardianship, he maintains, doesn't involve intervention on our part. But it does imply faith, moral stamina, and a determination to do everything in our power to keep democracy from failing here in America. Our present job is to show the world a good model of human freedom operating successfully.

A foreign visitor says the most surprising thing in America is our gas stations. How about our politicians?

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

BRASS RING TO ADOLF BERLE

WASHINGTON—Cordell Hull, for the most part, is a patient man. But on occasion, when an old newspaper friend has walked into his office, the Secretary of State has loosed a torrent of Tennessee vituperation against these "Brain Trusters" who tell him how to run his State Department.

And the "Brain Trusters" Mr. Hull has in mind are not the proverbial pair of Corcoran and Cohen, but only one man—the ineffable, inexplicable, irrepressible Adolf Augustus Berle, Jr.

The ineffable Adolf possesses a paradoxical capacity for getting in Mr. Hull's hair, while at the same time Mr. Hull leans on his Assistant Secretary of State as one of the most important members of the State Department.

This is the key to Berle's weird make-up. People don't like him, but they can't get along without him.

LATE FOR DINNER

His capacity for offending is unsurpassed in a city where snobbery is one of the accomplished arts.

Arriving at the Yugoslav Legation one night very late for dinner, the ineffable Adolf announced: "I have just been to a very important White House conference."

And yet Adolf can be the height of charm and graciousness, just as he can be the height of usefulness to Cordell Hull. He writes some of Hull's most effective speeches, helps frame some of the most important U. S. foreign policy, and as aide to Mayor LaGuardia, helped to revitalize the finances of New York. Also he authored Section 77B of the Bankruptcy Act, helped reorganize the New York savings banks during the 1932 depression, and wrote a book on the obligation of corporations to their investors which helped lay the foundation for the Securities and Exchange Act.

Probably one reason the ineffable Adolf sometimes gets on the nerves of Secretary Hull is that he has been trying to steer Mr. Hull's political path toward the presidency. And Mr. Hull, who considers himself (with some justice) one of the shrewdest politicians ever bred in the hills of Tennessee, think that he is completely capable of steering his own course.

The other man whom Adolf is trying to put across to the American public (as Vice President) is none other than Fiorello LaGuardia, who, it is generally agreed, is just about the most skilful putte-across-of-himself in these United States—except perhaps for Franklin Roosevelt. LaGuardia, however, does not resent Berle's solicitude. In fact, the two are intimate friends, and worked closely together when Berle, as Chamberlain of New York, pulled the city's bond values from 82 to 117.

CHILD PRODIGY

General Hugh Johnson is credited with the remark: "Berle was a child prodigy. Now he is no longer a prodigy."

At any rate, Adolf graduated from Harvard at 18—an age when many youngsters are just entering. He had been raised in the intellectual home of a Congressional minister by a father who had fought to clean up the banking system of Massachusetts, and whose motto was, "Despite all, the truth imposes itself."

Berle's father, now 74 years old, has

DIET AND HEALTH

Keeping Good Health Averts Gallstones

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

GALLSTONES are gritty deposits formed out of the mineral parts of the bile, which form in the gall bladder. They may vary as to number, size and shape. There may be one or 1,000; they may be as small as a grain of sand or as large as a lemon. They are often the shape of dice or small pyramids from grinding together. Usually they are colored white, gray, yellow, brown or green, taking their color from the color of the bile.

They are deposited in the gall bladder, in a great majority of cases, because of infection. The infection may occur from the intes-

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

And here is one place where constipation plays an important part in the derangement of health.

More Often in Women

Dr. A. C. Ivy, of Northwestern University, Chicago, says, "Experimental results show that constipation or irritation of the colon may predispose to a slow flow of bile and decreased bile formation." This stasis in the gall bladder is the most important step in the formation of gallstones. Gallstones occur in women more frequently than in men because women are more frequently constipated and also because during the state of pregnancy stasis occurs in all the muscular organs of the abdomen.

Naturally gallstones occur more often after middle age. All the factors which have to do with their formation accumulate during youth and come to the climax after the age of 40.

The treatment of gallstones depends very considerably on the seriousness of the condition. The mere existence of gallstones is not sufficient to justify treatment, especially surgical treatment. There is an apparent paradox in the fact that the smaller the gallstone, the more trouble it is likely to make. This is easy to understand, however, if one will consider that a small stone can get into the small ducts leading from the gall bladder to the intestine easier than a large stone.

Medical Routine

Many people with gallstones get along very well on a medical routine, which includes eating non-irritating foods, daily exercise and the occasional use of a mild saline laxative, such as one-half teaspoonful of sodium phosphate in a large glass of warm water before breakfast.

Treatment at our mineral spring spas in the United States, such as Saratoga, White Sulphur, Hot Springs, French Lick, Excelsior Springs, and others, is very helpful routine, spring and fall.

A diet for gallstones, in order to rest the gall bladder, is fat-free as follows:

No butter, olive oil salad dressing, eggs, cream, milk or fat part of meats.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CONSIDER WHAT'S LEFT

ALONG in the play of the hand, suppose one defender has already shown a good deal of high card strength, such as, perhaps, an ace-king. If he made no bid of any kind during the auction, it is very likely that he has no more high-card strength. Whatever other important honors are out of sight are probably in his partner's hand. If you figure it out that way, you will do well to plan the remainder of the play on that presumption.

Know how to listen, and you will profit even from those who

When West then shifted to his heart 3, South, some thinking. Feeling that East, with an ace-king, would probably have over-called the original 1-club if he also had a king or queen, but that he might have a jack, South took only the single finesse, playing the heart Q, and then set about to squeeze West. He cashed two spade tops, then four clubs. On playing the last, he also had a card in each major, North the spade 9 and heart A-10. West had to throw his spade Q, making South's J good, or break up his heart K-9, East holding the heart J. His goose was cooked. He tossed the spade, so declarer took in the spade J and the heart A to make contract.

YESTERDAY: Gayle is made a member of the Merrifield household when she is the first to answer the unusual advertisement that is answered by several hundred young women.

CHAPTER TWO

"IT'S ALL right, butler. I'm not the least bit afraid of him. I'm not afraid of anybody, see? I can't afford to be. But I've got to see him now! If that herd of females gets at him he'll be—"

Graham, the Merrifield butler who was already distressed at this day's unseemly routine, had come again into the master's study. At his heels this time was a strange young man. Of one accord Mr. Merrifield, Mr. Weems and Gayle Dixon turned to look.

The young man was decidedly in earnest—obviously he had forced himself right over poor Graham's authority—and yet he wore a happy smile, too. His hair was curly, and black. He was well dressed, and built like an athlete. He carried a hat with snapped-down brim.

"This gentleman has forced—" Graham began, but the young man grabbed the conversational reins.

"How do you do, everybody?" He turned to the three who sat before Mr. Merrifield's fireplace. "Thanks, butler, goodbye. How do you do everybody?" His repeating himself, while he quickly appraised the people and setting before him, caused Gayle Dixon to smile in amusement. Mr. Weems' mouth had dropped open, and Mr. Merrifield himself stared, incredulous.

"You are Mr. Merrifield, sir," the intruder resumed, addressing that gentleman unerringly. "I apologize for forcing my way in, but the truth is I've got to have work!"

Look, Mr. Merrifield, there are 500 girls down there now, and by the time you start seeing them at eight there'll be a thousand! Now, you can't handle that many in a month. I'm used to crowds and shoving and all that. I played football for four years—I'm just out of college—I can handle any kind of rush, and I can interview them for you. Now look, you give me some idea of what you want—and I'll begin weeding them out so that you—"

"I—you—who—!" Mr. Weems stammered.

"My name's Bill Bailey, and if you'll excuse me, sir, we haven't much time to wait. I don't care what you pay me. I've been trying to get a job since January and I'll take anything. I'll prove I can deliver the goods first. Okay, huh?"

Mr. Merrifield was staring at him and working his old jaws, but no sound came. Poor Mr. Weems was indignant, haughty; Gayle highly amused. Most likely Mr. Merrifield—who had been a well-disciplined executive for half a century and more—would have said a great deal in another moment or two, but at the instant the flood began.

Some of the 500-odd girls evidently sensed that Bill Bailey and the butler would lead the way to the Merrifield sanctum, so the more daring ones had started their own trip upstairs. Others had followed instantly. Now the feminine mob was about to engulf the Merrifield study!

Bill Bailey was first to act. He jumped to a chair.

"Quiet! Quiet, everybody!" he shouted, commanding. "Stand where you are! . . . Now listen, girls! Anybody who forces her way in will not be given a chance. Understand? All of you back out like ladies, doggone it, and start filing through that door one at a time! Mr. Merrifield—uh, he wants me to say that he thanks all of you very kindly and regrets that he can hire only one. I'll pick out six or eight for him to choose from, while he and his brother and granddaughter, or somebody, look on. Understand?"

He gave one hurried glance at the trio by the fireplace, then turned back to the mob. Girls had completely filled the great hallway outside the study and Bill talked loudly so that all those and even the others still on the stairway could hear. Mr. Merrifield and Mr. Weems looked helplessly at each other. Gayle Dixon was wide-eyed.

"Start walking by, slowly," Bill hurried on, with a positive air of authority. "Head out that other door yonder unless I take you out of the line. Miss—uh, you are Miss Merrifield or somebody, aren't you?"

He addressed Gayle for the first time.

"Yes, I—I really am somebody, but—" Gayle was quick-witted, too. She moved forward, ready to help.

"Okay. Now look—you lead the procession back outside again, eh? You know your way around this palace. Ought to be another way out somewhere. Your grandfather will be smothered in face powder if we don't act fast. Get me?"

"I get you!" Gayle stepped out, motioning to the girls to follow. She hoped—blindly hoped!—that a door across the room would lead somehow to an avenue of escape again, and fortunately it did.

The two old men said not a word for almost an hour.

They just stood by the fireplace and stared. Girls of every possible classification—there were even a few Chinese and one hopeful colored lass with very definite qualifications—passed in review before the astonished Bill Bailey. Bill greeted each one cordially, spoke a kindly word or two, but hurried them all past.

Every few minutes he asked a girl to step out of the line and wait. When Gayle had the line strung out to the lawn again, and had worked herself back up stairs with her air of authority, she found nine beautiful girls waiting in some confusion.

Standing there by the door, she was conscious all at once of Jeremy Tucker at her elbow. Jeremy, the young grandson of Mr. Merrifield, who had appeared earlier in dressing robe and had been sent away, like a little boy, to make himself presentable.

"Oh, I say!" Jeremy stared in astonishment at the moving line of girls. "Whatever is—?" He couldn't finish.

"These are girls who came in response to Mr. Merrifield's advertisement," Gayle explained. "They want to work for him. Poor dears!"

"Oh, for goodness sake!" Jeremy fled.

Gayle wished he had stayed. She wanted to study him. He was the man she was hired to woo! That is, Mr. Merrifield had said he wanted her to make love to young Jeremy. Did Jeremy understand that arrangement?

Whew! All at once the possibility of that assailed Gayle. Her face showed deep concern and she wished she could ask Mr. Merrifield about it at once, but he was obviously too distracted now. Anyway, Gayle wasn't sure she wanted to woo a man for pay. Jeremy Tucker appeared decent enough, refined, really, but colorless.

In the end Bill had selected 12 possible candidates. Then he pitched in with gentleness but firmness, displaying a rare charm, to cut that 12 down to six. When only the six remained, he turned to Mr. Merrifield again.

"I think, sir, that you yourself will want to choose the final candidate. These I assure you are the six best looking, and I'll bet a red hat they're the smartest ones, too. Do you want the rest of us to get out so you can go into a private huddle with these girls?"

"Why—why, yes. No! No, I—yes!" Poor Mr. Merrifield. He was a brusque, direct man himself, but after all he was approaching 80 years of age.

A moment later, though, he found himself alone with the six maidens and he had regained his poise. He swelled a little, looked almost fierce.

There before him stood youth! Beautiful, hopeful youth. Confident youth. Old Mr. Merrifield just stared at them for a minute or so, then smiled benignly from where he sat in the swivel chair of his great desk.

But he never did address them there. Instead, he suddenly turned and banged a large hand down on a signal bell, then bellowed loudly. "Mr. Weems, where are you?"

The secretary hurried back in, Gayle and Bill Bailey peered intently through the door he left open.

"Mr. Weems, confound it, put all six of these young ladies on the payroll at once! You hear me?"

"Oh, of course, sir! But what are they to do?"

"How in the devil do I know? And Mr. Weems—send that astonishing young Bailey back in here!"

PRESENT WORLD FACTS

Americans this last week have had their first real scare of war. It came from the British defeats in Norway. Those failures made millions of us realize suddenly that the Allies, with whom our sympathy is mostly engaged and who seem to be our first line of defense against autocracy, might not win. And if the dictatorships should win, what then? We began to feel a little uncertain about ourselves, and somewhat lonely in a big, menacing world.

We may pull ourselves out of that mood, with an Allied victory or two, but facts remain facts. Allied victory is not at all certain. Allied resources are not unlimited. Expert observers say that the allied democracies have enough money to last, at the present rate of spending, perhaps till the end of next year. Then, if the war is not won, they will need credit for further supplies.

At present their great need is airplanes, to take control of the air from the Nazis. If they could get immediately all the war planes they need and are able to pay for, says Walter Lippman, they could become masters of the air at once, and could probably win the war this year.

"The crucial difficulty," he says, "which makes us insecure and handicaps them critically, is that the plants have not been built, the tools have not been made, the labor has not been trained, in order to produce armaments as quickly as the condition of affairs in the world requires."

It may be, in a long-range view, that there are other things no less important to Americans this year than the political campaign.

OUR JOB OF FREEDOM

The world must organize and federate, or it will perish, says Barnett R. Brickner, a leading American rabbi. And the outcome of the present war in Europe, which may spread widely, will determine whether the organization shall be totalitarian or democratic. Our stake in the outcome is obvious.

"Everything in me," he adds, "compels me to believe that mankind will not succumb permanently to a world order such as Hitler and Stalin would force upon it. This country of ours, I believe, will stand guard lest the flame of liberty be blown out."

Such guardianship, he maintains, doesn't involve intervention on our part. But it does imply faith, moral stamina, and a determination to do everything in our power to keep democracy from failing here in America. Our present job is to show the world a good model of human freedom operating successfully.

A foreign visitor says the most surprising thing in America is our gas stations. How about our politicians?

Up and about the village at the usual hour, shivering in the cold and wondering whether more coal purchases will be necessary. Found little of news in the morning prints and practically nothing worth repeating during a long stroll over the business district paves. Seems as though all activity is awaiting the advent of warm weather.

Karl Herrmann, Tom Gilliland and Charlie Gilmore drove to Cincinnati to see the Reds in action against those inspired Brooklyn athletes, but rain and cold weather made their trip for naught. That's what I call disappointment. Maybe that is one of the reasons I am a football fan. One expects disagreeable weather during the gridiron season, and usually gets it. And games are not called off. Last Fall I attended one of the World Series games in Cincinnati and took along a top coat, feeling very much like a fool for appearing so attired at a baseball game, but I do not enjoy being uncomfortable. I wasn't anyway despite the topcoat, with everyone looking at me and probably thinking me an invalid.

John Greenlee, of down Pickaway Township way, had a shepherd. Quite a dog. Quite a few muskrats and other fur bearing animals once inhabited that district. John hunted them with the aid of his dog. Says the animal could tell from the type of skin drying boards he was whittling out just what kind of animals were to be hunted that particular day. The dog got into the house only on infrequent occasions. One day he entered and Mrs. Greenlee was setting up the ironing board. The dog took one look at that device and promptly disappeared, never to be heard from again.

Robert Anderson, the retired educator whose treks north and south on Court Street are as regular as clockwork each morning, is ill and all his friends are wishing for quick recovery. He reports to me each Spring on the return of the quails, and he also exploded the claim of some citizens that quail are never seen within the city limits. He has many of the birds near his beautiful home in the north end.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

BRASS RING TO ADOLF BERLE

WASHINGTON—Cordell Hull, for the most part, is a patient man. But on occasion, when an old newspaper friend has walked into his office, the Secretary of State has loosed a torrent of Tennessee vituperation against these "Brain Trusters" who tell him how to run his State Department.

And the "Brain Trusters" Mr. Hull has in mind are not the proverbial pair of Corcoran and Cohen, but only one man—the ineffable, inexplicable, irrepressible Adolf Augustus Berle, Jr.

The ineffable Adolf possesses a paradoxical capacity for getting in Mr. Hull's hair, while at the same time Mr. Hull leans on his Assistant Secretary of State as one of the most important members of the State Department.

LATE FOR DINNER

His capacity for offending is unsurpassed in a city where snobbery is one of the accomplished arts.

Arriving at the Yugoslav Legation one night very late for dinner, the ineffable Adolf announced: "I have just been to a very important White House conference."

And yet Adolf can be the height of charm and graciousness, just as he can be the height of usefulness to Cordell Hull. He writes some of Hull's most effective speeches, helps frame some of the most important U. S. foreign policy, and as aide to Mayor LaGuardia, helped to revitalize the finances of New York. Also he authored Section 77B of the Bankruptcy Act, helped reorganize the New York savings banks during the 1932 depression, and wrote a book on the obligation of corporations to their investors which helped lay the foundation for the Securities and Exchange Act.

Probably one reason the ineffable Adolf sometimes gets on the nerves of Secretary Hull is that he has been trying to steer Mr. Hull's political path toward the presidency. And Mr. Hull, who considers himself (with some justice) one of the shrewdest politicians ever bred in the hills of Tennessee, think that he is completely capable of steering his own course.

The other man whom Adolf is trying to put across to the American public (as Vice President) is none other than Fiorello LaGuardia, who, it is generally agreed, is just about the most skilful putte-across-of-himself in these United States—except perhaps for Franklin Roosevelt. LaGuardia, however, does not resent Berle's solicitude. In fact, the two are intimate friends, and worked closely together when Berle, as Chamberlain of New York, pulled the city's bond values from 82 to 117.

CHILD PRODIGY

General Hugh Johnson is credited with the remark: "Berle was a child prodigy. Now he is no longer a prodigy."

At any rate, Adolf graduated from Harvard at 18—an age when many youngsters are just entering. He had been raised in the intellectual home of a Congressional minister by a father who had fought to clean up the banking system of Massachusetts, and whose motto was, "Despite all, the truth imposes itself."

Berle's father, now 74 years old, has

DIET AND HEALTH

Keeping Good Health Averts Gallstones

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

GALLSTONES are gritty deposits formed out of the mineral parts of the bile, which form in the gall bladder. They may vary as to number, size and shape. There may be one or 1,000; they may be as small as a grain of sand or as large as a lemon. They are often the shape of dice or small pyramids from grinding together. Usually they are colored white, gray, yellow, brown or green, taking their color from the color of the bile.

They are deposited in the gall bladder, in a great majority of cases, because of infection. The infection may occur from the intestines.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

times, and here is one place where constipation plays an important part in the derangement of health.

More Often in Women

Dr. A. C. Ivy, of Northwestern University, Chicago, says, "Experimental results show that constipation or irritation of the colon may predispose to a slow flow of bile and decreased bile formation." This stasis in the gall bladder is the most important step in the formation of gallstones. Gallstones occur in women more frequently than in men because women are more frequently constipated and also because during the state of pregnancy stasis occurs in all the muscular organs of the abdomen.

Naturally gallstones occur more often after middle age. All the factors which have to do with their formation accumulate during youth and come to the climax after the age of 40.

The treatment of gallstones depends very considerably on the seriousness of the condition. The mere existence of gallstones is not sufficient to justify treatment, especially surgical treatment. There is an apparent paradox in the fact that the smaller the gallstone, the more trouble it is likely to make. This is easy to understand, however, if one will consider that a small stone can get into the small ducts leading from the gall bladder to the intestine easier than a large stone.

Medical Routine

Many people with gallstones get along very well on a medical routine, which includes eating non-irritating foods, daily exercise and the occasional use of a mild saline laxative, such as one-half teaspoonful of sodium phosphate in a large glass of warm water before breakfast.

Treatment at our mineral spring spas in the United States, such as Saratoga, White Sulphur, Hot Springs, French Lick, Excelsior Springs, and others, is very helpful routine, spring and fall.

A diet for gallstones, in order to rest the gall bladder, is fat-free as follows:

No butter, olive oil salad dressing, eggs, cream, milk or fat part of meats.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. If he made no bid of any kind during the auction, it is quite likely that he has no more high-card strength. Whatever other important honors are out of sight are probably in his partner's hand. If you figure it out that way, you will do well to plan the remainder of the play on that presumption.

When West then shifted to his heart 3, South did some thinking. Feeling East, with an ace-king, would probably have over-called the original 1-Club if he also had a king or queen, but that he might have a jack, South took only the single finesse, playing the heart Q, and then set about to squeeze West. He cashed two spade tops, then four clubs. On playing the last, he also had a card in each major, North the spade 9 and heart A-10. West had to throw his spade Q, making South's J good, or break up his heart K-9, East holding the heart J. His goose was cooked. He tossed the spade 3, declarer took in the spade J and the heart A to make contract.

Hot Weather Pet

THE STRIPED jersey frock promises to be a hot weather pet in today's style and several similar versions—all on the long-sleeved shirtwaist theme. It's inexpensive, chic and cool, and with a separate wool jacket of one sort or another, may be converted into a suit. There's an elongated navy coat for navy and white stripes, for instance; also, black for black and white... the white flannel jacket will turn it into a stunning sports outfit. For town, you'll choose simple white accessories such as the pique sailor with its black feather, the pique gloves with turn-back cuffs and the kidskin steps. These, incidentally, are something new in this leather. Sides and vamp are of quilted, elasticized kid, the heel of smooth kid—snug yet light on the foot.

"What are we coming to? Times were never like this." We can hear these remarks, or others of the same gist, on almost any street corner today. The fact is, if we look back—say, seventy to a hundred years—times were not like our. They were worse in many ways. We realize this if we read books that give a true picture of that period, or if we examine old photographs.

In those days, life and really hard—hard in general and detail. There was no such thing as flood? ing a room with light by pushing a button, or heating it by a twist of the wrist to turn on steam. Nor did water, hot or cold, pour from faucets. When any one wanted light, he lit a candle, or a kerosene lamp. He heated his room with a coal stove, or logs in a fireplace. He toted water from a spring or a well. If he "felt he needed a bath" he went to the nearest swimming hole, or bathed in a tin tub—sometimes even in a wooden wash tub.

For their education, children of the '70's often trudged—perhaps for miles—to a little red schoolhouse where all the grades were taught by one person. Possibly certain children of today glide to school over the same road they walked on—glide in busses and take this luxury for granted. Some of their great-grandparents, perhaps, had little or no chance for instruction. They may have been obliged—as many children in their early 'teens then were—to work all the daylight hours for as little as fifteen cents a day.

In material ways we are far ahead of our forebears. But, have we their indomitable spirit? If the answer is no, if luxury has softened us, our biggest need is for self-discipline.

Marcella M. Cunningham.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howell, Miss Virginia Marion and Miss Katherine Bockart are members of the hospitality committee for the evening.

Bobby Phillips Honored

Bobby Phillips, who was nine Thursday, was honored at a party Saturday at 1 o'clock. Mrs. G. D. Phillips, his mother, entertaining 18 of his friends at a dessert lunch at the Phillips home, Beverly Road.

Those enjoying the birthday celebration included David and Dick Fullen, John Fissell, Donald Crist, Tommy Clark, Jimmy Hill, Jimmy Lytle, Danny Musser, Billy

Hot Weather Pet

THE STRIPED jersey frock promises to be a hot weather pet in today's style and several similar versions—all on the long-sleeved shirtwaist theme. It's inexpensive, chic and cool, and with a separate wool jacket of one sort or another, may be converted into a suit. There's an elongated navy coat for navy and white stripes, for instance; also, black for black and white... the white flannel jacket will turn it into a stunning sports outfit. For town, you'll choose simple white accessories such as the pique sailor with its black feather, the pique gloves with turn-back cuffs and the kiskin steppins. These, incidentally, are something new in this leather. Sides and vamp are of quilted, elasticized kid, the heel of smooth kid—snug yet light on the foot.

Mother's Day Banquet Of Zelda Class Held

Fifty members and guests were present for the annual Mother's Day Banquet of the Zelda Bible Class of the Methodist Church, Friday, an unusually excellent musical program, augmented by readings by Mrs. Tom Renick, marking the affair.

The tables were set in the social room in the shape of a U, many bowls of spring flowers of colorful hues and ivory candles in crystal holders being used in the tasteful decorations. Favors of small potted plants marked each place, the delicious two course dinner being served at 6:30 p. m. by the hostess committee headed by Mrs. Earl Kibler, and including Mrs. Adella Huffman, class president, who welcomed the guests. Mrs. C. F. Abernethy responded.

Mrs. John Hegele played two brilliant numbers on her accordion, "Pietros Return" and "Repaz Band". Two delightful vocal solos by Miss Eleanor Snyder were accompanied at the piano by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, the selections being "Let My Song Still Your Heart" and "My Johann." Miss Snyder appeared again on the program, closing the entertainment with two numbers, "Buy My Strawberries" and "Over the Land is April."

Mrs. Tom Renick presented a group of readings by Anna Campbell followed by "Memorandum for an Infant Son," by Dorothy Thompson, for her program number.

Miss Clarke pleased the interested audience with her piano solo, "Juba Dance."

An informal social hour followed Miss Snyder's last solos.

What's Right With America

"What are we coming to? Times were never like this." We can hear these remarks, or others of the same gist, on almost any street corner today. The fact is, if we look back—say, seventy to a hundred years—times were not like our. They were worse in many ways. We realize this if we read books that give a true picture of that period, or if we examine old photographs.

In those days, life and really hard—hard in general and detail. There was no such thing as flood? ing a room with light by pushing a button, or heating it by a twist of the wrist to turn on steam. Nor did water, hot or cold, pour from faucets. When any one wanted light, he lit a candle, or a kerosene lamp. He heated his room with a coal stove, or logs in a fireplace. He took water from a spring or a well. If he "felt he needed a bath" he went to the nearest swimming hole, or bathed in a tin tub—sometimes even in a wooden wash tub.

For their education, children of the '70's often trudged — perhaps for miles—to a little red schoolhouse where all the grades were taught by one person. Possibly certain children of today glide to school over the same road they walked on — glide in busses and take this luxury for granted. Some of their great-grandparents, perhaps, had little or no chance for instruction. They may have been obliged—as many children in their early 'teens then were—to work all the daylight hours for as little as fifteen cents a day.

In material ways we are far ahead of our forebears. But, have we their indomitable spirit? If the answer is no, if luxury has softened us, our biggest need is for self-discipline.

Marcella M. Cunningham.

Several mottoes will be considered by Joan Downing, chairman; Mary Ann Bosworth, Betty Clifton, Iona Quincel, George Skaggs, Letty Strawser and Harry Winfough.

A general committee has been appointed to take care of minor details. This committee is composed of Jack Goldsberry, chairman; Eileen Cramer, Margery Friece, Charles Gard, Edgar Haynes, Eileen Kirby, William Kockenaparger, Jack Lake, Virginia Sabine and Mary Seymour.

MRS. H. MOORE TALKS TO CLUB

At the regular meeting of the Junior Girl Reserves Monday, Mrs. Howard B. Moore gave a talk on "If I Were A Girl Again". Mrs. Moore said that if she were young again she would have more respect for older folk and learn to be seen and not heard.

President Margaret Boggs announced that Mr. William Cady assisted by the ladies of the United Brethren Church will prepare the dinner when the girls entertain their mothers. The banquet will be held in the social room at the high school, May 16.

Girls chosen to serve for the Senior Girl Reserve banquet are Viola Arledge, Margaret Boggs, Dorothy Ann Dresbach, Florence Dresbach, Marguerite Grose, Emma Howard, Martha Kilian, Lois Madison, Betty Moeller, and Martha Pile. This Mother-Daughter banquet is to be held May 13.

Junior Girl Reserves expect to go to the Episcopal Church Sunday.

SR. PRODUCTION IN FINAL WEEK

Preparation for the senior class play "What a Life", the story of the Aldrich family, is almost at an end. This is the final week of rehearsal for the play.

Parents of the cast were invited to observe play practice Tuesday evening, April 30. Scenery for the play arrived Thursday of this week.

Wednesday, May 8, a preview of "What a Life" will be presented before a high school assembly. This play, which ran a year and a half on Broadway, is closely connected with the radio program, the Aldrich Family, which plays each week on Sunday at 3:30 p. m.

MEETING HELD

Plans were completed for the annual Hi-Y Sweetheart Banquet Monday evening at their weekly meeting.

After business was dispensed for the evening, Abner Griffey presented a program relating to his experiences in the C.C.C. reforestation camp.

had considerable influence on his life. So also has he wife.

Berle, who is now 45, did not marry until he was 32, and when he did, he picked out Beatrice Bend Bishop, a woman of Mrs. Berle was almost disowned by her family when they discovered she had fallen in love with a young man who actually had lived in a tenement house district and shunned Back Bay society. So when the wedding day rolled around, it was Henry P.
Fletcher, ex-chairman of the Republican National Committee and uncle of Mrs. Berle, who conducted her to the altar.

NO PRIVATE LIFE

Paradoxically, Berle was first appointed Assistant Secretary of State in order to handle press relations—a job for which no one could have been worse suited. For like Rex Tugwell, Adolf hates publicity, yet the public spotlight seems to follow him unceasingly.

"I suppose the price of working for the Government is to have one's private life explored," he says, "but I think it need not extend beyond the individual to his family, to have them thrown in the jackpot as well."

Berle has now settled down into a special groove in the State Department, where he doesn't have to worry about press relations. He has had a finger in the Hitler scoldings, the sending of an envoy to the Vatican, and especially in the efforts to keep Italy neutral.

He also does a lot of backstage speech writing and economic research for Roosevelt, and probably sees more of the President than
Mr. Hull himself.

No matter what his failings, the ineffable Adolf will always be remembered by the diplomatic corps for one remark he made when Poland was invaded.

"The difficulty with Europe," remarked a foreign ambassador to Berle "is that this war will lead to world revolution."

To which Berle replied: "Mr.
Ambassador, this is the world revolution."

For Sunday, May 5

SUNDAY's horoscope is a very promising and propitious one, with the forecast of the fulfillment of many elements of ambition and high purpose. These may lie in the direction of originality and unusual creative work, in which initiative and enterprise will gain the support and friendship of those of influence and social position.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a successful year, with a rich fruition of many phases of heart's desire. Literary or artistic talents may win the hearty support and friendship of those in high places, so develop these with ardor and confidence, and then push to advanced goals.

A child born on this day may be versatile, with talent in intellectual or cultural avenues of expression, probably excelling in the professions and attaining conspicuous position by its noble, expansive and generous nature.

Boys Selected To Take Part In Events Scheduled At Fairgrounds

An "early bird" breakfast, which will herald the start of the campaign for $750 to guarantee Circleville and Pickaway County participation in the 1940 program of the Central Ohio Area Boy Scouts, will be served next Wednesday at 7:30 a. m. in the American Hotel Hurricane.

Charles T. Goeller, chairman of the financial committee for the district, called attention Saturday to the breakfast.

"This will start us off on a full stomach for the sustaining membership appeal to support the Boy Scout program in Pickaway County," Goeller said.

"We, of the Committee, after observing the growth of Scouting in our county, feel quite confident that those who have benefited and seen the worthwhileness of the Scout program will not fail to give it their full support.

"This year we have the opportunity of providing funds for the continued servicing of existing Scout Troops, the extension of the program to many Pickaway County rural youths, the sustaining of our outstanding Boy Scout Camping Reservation, near Delaware, Ohio, and the continued effort of our Field Executive to better Scouting in Pickaway County.

"In short, we need $750 to carry out the plan. You, as Scouters, parents of Scouts, and friends of Scouting, are invited to help in this campaign. Come and enjoy the fellowship at the breakfast, spend a short time contacting the people of your own choosing and the job will be done.

MEN ON ROSTER OF WPA RECEIVE VOTING NOTICE

The following notice by Colonel F. C. Harrington, national administrator of WPA, on the voting rights of WPA employees, is being received this week by each of the 489 workers in Pickaway County who were on the rolls as of April 24.

In order that there can be no misunderstanding of Work Projects Administration rules about voting rights of employees, regulations of this Administration on this matter are stated as follows:

1. You are entitled to vote or not vote, as you choose.

2. No one either connected with or not connected with the Work Projects Administration can get you fired or change your wages because you do or do not vote or because you belong to or do not belong to a political party. It is against the law for anyone to ask you for money for any political campaign.

5. Voting is your own business. Keep it that way.

As Commissioner of Work Projects, I will not tolerate any violation of the above regulations. The Work Projects Administration is not in politics and does not take part in politics, either directly or indirectly.

BRADLEY ENTRY WINS EXCELLENT POLE POSITION

Derby Horses To Start Event At About 5:30 Circleville Time

Come what will, the race will be attended by approximately 50,000 persons with places to sit, including notables from every branch of activity, and another 35,000 standers who will suffer all the misery that goes with being jostled about the premises all afternoon for the mere privilege of getting a fleeting glimpse of Bimelech and the rest. The suffering will be acute, one way and another. What with the first race due to go off at noon and the Derby to be the seventh on the program.

All this for a thrill that can't last less than two minutes, one and four-fifths seconds, unless the winner breaks the track and Derby record set by Twenty Grand in 1931.

Bim Has All Answers

Up to now Bimelech has done everything that has been asked of him—carried top weight, run over varying strips, beat the best opposition offered, turned in the best time and on top of all that goes into today's extravaganza with the best record of any horse entered. They all will be even in the weights at 126 pounds and nothing short of a frustrating pocket or a too bad start can keep Col Bradley from winning the classic for the fifth time.

Due to recent ailments he alone will be an absentee among the owners, when and if Bimmy takes it all as expected. The all includes, besides the not unimportant stake, a $5,000 cup and a garland of 500 Louisville-grown American Beauty roses for the winning horse and another five dozen woven together for the winning rider. The latter, and other riders in the money and trainers whose horses finish up there all will be paid off along with the more fortunate owners out of the stake.

One thing Bimelech doesn't have to worry about is breaking his Kentucky-bred courtesy to the ladies—in the event he takes command of the race. There isn't a filly entered this time, with the field as of yesterday made up of seven colts and two geldings, the latter being Sirocco and Dit.

Thus today everything was set for the outstanding classic of the American turf, with the only for malities left being the scratching of the rank outsiders and springing of the barrier to let Bimmy go.

POWDER BLAST DAMAGES PLANT

such as this did not spread to other operations on the grounds.

Three blinding flashes of light which threw a glare into the sky that was seen in Wilmington, five miles across the Delaware River, preceded the detonation.

The flares were caused by ignition of the powder as it whirled around in a vat, workmen explained. In Wilmington, early morning risers who saw the glare said it looked like a brilliant sunrise in the eastern sky.

The intensity of the roaring boom that followed almost immediately, however, dispelled that illusion.

In a community well aware of the ever-present hazard of explosion and sudden death at the powder works, word spread immediately that the plant had gone up. Anxious relatives or workers immediately rushed to the gates to the property seeking to learn whether anyone was killed. Telephone calls flooded police, fire and newspaper offices over a wide area in both New Jersey and Delaware where the blast was heard.

The Germans, according to most war correspondents, slipped in a "Trojan horse" on the unsuspecting Norwegians. Hey—what is this? We thought this was a mechanized war!

POLICE PUZZLED

SAN FRANCISCO, — Police were a little puzzled as to how to enter a case upon the blotter. Summoned to the home of Perry Hughes, special police officer, they were informed that Hughes' son, George Hughes, 25, had come home, gone to his father's room, taken a revolver and shot himself through the shoulder. Asked the reason for his act, as doctors work-

Nominate IMMELL -for- CONGRESS

What have the taxpayers of this Congressional district received, besides what they would have received anyway for the $60,000 that has been paid in salaries to keep his opponent in Congress during his two terms? You know the complete answer.

What this district needs in the way of a Congressional representative is a SELF STARTER. We do not believe in bench-warming or waiting to be prodded to do the necessary things for constituents. We believe in real representation of the taxpayers' interests even if that representation does mean work. We are campaigning on business fundamentals instead of BILLBOARDS. Idle promises remain empty promises even after election. We are not promising the impossible but Mr. Immell promises that if nominated and elected to a seat in the Congress that this district will be truly represented at all times. His service to the voters will not be entirely in the form of pre-election promises alone.

His service to the public will be an energetic in December as it is in May. His opponent has had four year in which to show his representative ability. The records of Congress are always open to public inspection. His opponent has already demonstrated beyond the shadow of doubt his lack of legislative ability.

MEN ON ROSTER OF WPA RECEIVE VOTING NOTICE

The following notice by Colonel F. C. Harrington, national administrator of WPA, on the voting rights of WPA employees, is being received this week by each of the 489 workers in Pickaway County who were on the rolls as of April 24.

In order that there can be no misunderstanding of Work Projects Administration rules about voting rights of employees, regulations of this Administration on this matter are stated as follows:

1. You are entitled to vote or not vote, as you choose.

2. No one either connected with or not connected with the Work Projects Administration can get you fired or change your wages because you do or do not vote or because you belong to or do not belong to a political party. It is against the law for anyone to ask you for money for any political campaign.

3. If you are employed in an administrative or supervisory capacity you may vote as you please and express privately your opinion on political subjects. However, it is against the law for persons who are employed in an administrative or supervisory capacity to engage in political activity or to take an active part or use their influence directly or indirectly in political management or political campaigns or in political conventions.

4. Every effort will be made to arrange the working schedules so that you will not lose the necessary time taken for voting purposes.

5. Voting is your own business. Keep it that way.

As Commissioner of Work Projects, I will not tolerate any violation of the above regulations. The Work Projects Administration is not in politics and does not take part in politics, either directly or indirectly.

F. C. Harrington
Commissioner

BRADLEY ENTRY WINS EXCELLENT POLE POSITION

Derby Horses To Start Event At About 5:30 Circleville Time

(Continued from Page One) strung out to the rear—in the waging and in the running. Come what will, the race will be attended by approximately 50,000 persons with places to sit, including notables from every branch of activity, and another 35,000 standers who will suffer all the misery that goes with being jostled about the premises all afternoon for the mere privilege of getting a fleeting glimpse of Bimelech and the rest. The suffering will be acute, one way and another. What with the first race due to go off at noon and the Derby to be the seventh on the program.

All this for a thrill that can't last less than two minutes, one and four-fifths seconds, unless the winner breaks the track and Derby record set by Twenty Grand in 1931.

Bim Has All Answers

Up to now Bimelech has done everything that has been asked of him—carried top weight, run over varying strips, beat the best opposition offered, turned in the best time and on top of all that goes into today's extravaganza with the best record of any horse entered. They all will be even in the weights at 126 pounds and nothing short of a frustrating pocket or a too bad start can keep Col Bradley from winning the classic for the fifth time.

Due to recent ailments he alone will be an absentee among the owners, when and if Bimmy takes it all as expected. The all includes, besides the not unimportant stake, a $5,000 cup and a garland of 500 Louisville-grown American Beauty roses for the winning horse and another five dozen woven together for the winning rider. The latter, and other riders in the money and trainers whose horses finish up there all will be paid off along with the more fortunate owners out of the stake.

One thing Bimelech doesn't have to worry about is breaking his Kentucky-bred courtesy to the ladies—in the event he takes command of the race. There isn't a filly entered this time, with the field as of yesterday made up of seven colts and two geldings, the latter being Sirocco and Dit.

Thus today everything was set for the outstanding classic of the American turf, with the only for malities left being the scratching of the rank outsiders and springing of the barrier to let Bimmy go.

European Bulletins

ROME—A strong German offensive against the Allies in the near future was predicted today by Giovanni Ansaldo, editor of Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano's newspaper Telegrafo di Leghorn.

AMSTERDAM — Premier Dr. Kerk Jan De Geer today announced the arrest of 21 persons on grounds that they were regarded as dangerous to the order and safety of the Netherlands.

BELGRADE — A mysterious gasoline explosion today destroyed a Yugoslavian power plant at Prishtina, halting construction work on a new tunnel of the strategic railway line from Nish to the Adriatic Sea.

Good drinks and bad wars seem to have something in common. One just naturally results in everybody having another.

POWDER BLAST DAMAGES PLANT

such as this did not spread to other operations on the grounds.

Three blinding flashes of light which threw a glare into the sky that was seen in Wilmington, five miles across the Delaware River, preceded the detonation.

The flares were caused by ignition of the powder as it whirled around in a vat, workmen explained. In Wilmington, early morning risers who saw the glare said it looked like a brilliant sunrise in the eastern sky.

The intensity of the roaring boom that followed almost immediately, however, dispelled that illusion.

In a community well aware of the ever-present hazard of explosion and sudden death at the powder works, word spread immediately that the plant had gone up. Anxious relatives or workers immediately rushed to the gates to the property seeking to learn whether anyone was killed. Telephone calls flooded police, fire and newspaper offices over a wide area in both New Jersey and Delaware where the blast was heard.

The Germans, according to most war correspondents, slipped in a "Trojan horse" on the unsuspecting Norwegians. Hey—what is this? We thought this was a mechanized war!

The intensity of the roaring boom that followed almost immediately, however, dispelled that illusion.

POLICE PUZZLED

SAN FRANCISCO. — Police were a little puzzled as to how to enter a case upon the blotter. Summoned to the home of Perry Hughes, special police officer, they were informed that Hughes' son, George Hughes, 25, had come home, gone to his father's room, taken a revolver and shot himself through the shoulder. Asked the reason for his act, as doctors worked over him, the young man merely shrugged his shoulders and replied: "Just because." That's the way it went into the police records, finally.

It's the same among nations as it is among individuals. The smart ones call the cop when a big bully says: "What you need is protection."

IMMELL
-for-
CONGRESS

What have the taxpayers of this Congressional district received, besides what they would have received anyway for the $60,000 that has been paid in salaries to keep his opponent in Congress during his two terms? You know the complete answer.

What this district needs in the way of a Congressional representative is a SELF STARTER. We do not believe in bench-warming or waiting to be prodded to do the necessary things for constituents. We believe in real representation of the taxpayers' interests even if that representation does mean work. We are campaigning on business fundamentals instead of BILLBOARDS. Idle promises remain empty promises even after election. We are not promising the impossible but Mr. Immell promises that if nominated and elected to a seat in the Congress that this district will be truly represented at all times. His service to the voters will not be entirely in the form of pre-election promises alone.

His service to the public will be an energetic in December as it is in May. His opponent has had four year in which to show his representative ability. The records of Congress are always open to public inspection. His opponent has already demonstrated beyond the shadow of doubt his lack of legislative ability.
